HE WAS DEAD THIS WOMAN LOVED, HIM MORE THAN I," HIS WIFE SAID, When She Saw the Devotion to the Dead, and I Thought That I Loved Dr. Andrews"-Now Mrs. Wilford Is Dead, and Mr. Chilton, Another Love, Is Her Heir. NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 12. There are people in Perth Amboy who believe that Harry Hope Chilton, a good-looking Englishman, ererted a hynotic power over Mrs. Mary Wilford and caused her to will her $10,000 estate to him and to make him sole executor of her will. These ideas were expressed at the Court House yesterday afternoon at the hearing in the contest over the will of the late Mrs. Wilford. Chilton was her boarder. Mrs A. Wilford Burwell of Stafford Springs, Conn. a sister of Edward Wilford, deceased, bushand of Mary Wilford, testified that she had visited her brother at Perth Amboy on one eccasion and had found Chilton acting as if he owned the place. At the dinner table Chilton rejected a dish which didn't suit him and at once left the table in an angry passion. Mr. Wilford told her afterward that his wife had no room in the house for him now that Chilton had

"Did you know Chilton?" This question was asked on cross-examination.

"I never knew him, but I am safe in saying that if Dr. Andrews had lived Chilton would not have been the heir to the estate, for the dector had the inside track," the witness replied. It's too bad that he died." Charles M. Welden, a restaurant keeper at Perth Amboy, who lived next to the Wilfords, testified that on one occasion he saw Chilton kiss Mrs. Wilford why she placed so much confidence in Chilton.

"He is my lord and master," she had replied, and I must obey him. Whatever he tells me I must do."

Mr. Welden said that he had noticed that when Mr. Wilford went home to dinner his wife would give him bread and milk, while when Chilton went home she would go out and get some lamb chops, "because Harry did love lamb chops,"

Five New York theatres closed for the season last night, and at a sixth an exceptionally prosperous run of a play ended. This was at the Academy of Music where "Wav Down East" has been played more than two hundred times, though it was seen at as many performances two years ago at the Manhattan. That Theatre was one that put up the summer shutters last night, and so did the Lyceum after two weeks of Virginia Calhoun in "Borderside."
"Hearts are Trumps" finished its prosperous

A NIMBLE, SCRAPPY CROOK. GRABBED A WOMAN'S PURSE AND DARTED INTO A HOUSE IN HARLEM.

Scared the Housemaid, Hid in a Pantry, Upset a Policeman and Made a Dash for a Lady's Chamber - Dragged Heels First From Under a Bed and Subdued by a Cop.

Mrs. Jane Russell, who lives at 216 West 131st street, left her home after dinner yesterday to go shopping She carried a handsome goldmounted purse which contained $38.55. As she was walking down Seventh avenue between 130th and 131st streets, a young man passed her, cast a giance at the pocketbook and quick as a flash whirled around and grabbed it from her hand.

Mrs. Russell screamed, and this attracted the attention of Warren Eddy, a colored hallboy of 183 West 131st street, who was near the corner. The thief ran down Seventh avenue to 180th street and turned east. There Mounted Police-man Patrick H. Cash of the Highbridge station's special squad, which does duty along Seventh man Patrick H. Cash of the Highbridgestation's special squad, which does duty along Seventh avenue, joined in the chase. The fug tive was a swift runner, but Cash put the spurs to his horse and overtook him at 130th street and Lenox avenue. Eddy and a crowd of men and bows soon came up

Before the policeman could dismount the thief darted into the basement of the house at 401 Lenox avenue, which is occupied by J. B. Ketcham, a real estate dealer of 58 west 125th street. He ran into the kitchen, where he almost fell into the arms of Lazzie Reilly, a servant, who was washing the dinner dishes. Locking the door and grabbing the girl by the throat, he said:

"The police are outside after me. Show me some place to hide or I'll kill you this instant."

The girl opened the pantry door, and the thief crouched under some shelves. Policeman Cash was hammering at the kitchen door for admittance. It wasn't opened soon enough so he burst it in and found the girl standing in the centre of the room so frightened she could scarcely speak.

"Where's that man who came in here a minute ago? He's a thief and he must be in here somewhere," said the copper.

Just then a voice came from the pantry, "If you open this door I'll blow your head off." Cash put his shoulder to the door and it soon yielded. The thief jumped out and before the policeman got his bearings he was knocked down with a right-hander on the jaw.

The cutpurse then dashed up stairs to the second floor and into Mrs. Ketcham's bedroom. When she was reading a newspaper. When she saw him she screamed. The thief crawled under the bed and said if she told where he was he would put a bullet through her Just then Cash arrived and, grabbing him by the feet, yanked him out. He gave the policeman a sharp fight, but Cash came out victor and put the handcuffs on him. He was taken to the West 125th street station, where he said he was John Snyder, 19 years old, of 349 East Forty-fourth street.

The tolen pocketbook was found on the basement steps of Mr. Ketcham's house and returne

N. Y. U. Outpoints Hamilton in Their Dual

UTICA, May 12. - The track team of the New York University defeated the Hamilton College team in a dual meet held here this afternoon by a score of 54 to 50 points. The weather was fine, the track in good condition and every event fought to a finish. Hamilton was superior in the long runs, the hammer throw and 100-yard dash New York won because of her strength in the hurdles, jumps, pole vault and middle distance runs. Prinstein, the world's champion broad jumper, was present and made an exhibition jump of 21 feet 9 inches. Summaries: DAVID DE LONG FOUND DEAD.

CUTLER SCHOOL'S BANNER. Her Young Athletes Win the Annual Interscholastic Championships.

The Twenty-second annual track and field championship meeting of the New York Interscholastic A. A. was held at Berkeley Oval yesterday afternoon. The Cutler School athletes covered themselves with glory and carried off the point trophy cup with a total of 6414 points. Berkeley and Columbia Grammar schools tied for second with a total of 30 points each. The Cutler boys showed the result of good training, and Berkeley, which has held undisputed title in interscholastic sport for the past twenty years, was forced to yield the palm.

The day was perfect for outdoor sport and ong before the hour set for the first event the field was alive with the youngsters warming up for the battle. The meet this year, too, was of more than the usual importance, as the four earlier than he did. But despite all this there is no first men in each event were to be entered in the intercity games to be held next Saturday. Four records were broken. The first to go by the boards was in the 220-yard senior run. T.

L. Manson, the schoolbov wonder, covered the distance in 22 3-5 seconds, taking one fifth of a second from the whole record, standing since 1891. Le Roy See, the crack bicycle rider of Berkeley School, rode the distance in the one-mile race in 2 minutes 91-5 seconds, 24 1-5 seconds better than the record and 17 1-5 seconds better than the record and 17 1-5 seconds better than his heat on Friday, in which he broke the record by 161-5 seconds.

E. Flammer proved the dark horse in the hammer throw. No less than three hammers was thrown by him across the electric light wire crossing the field and every one of them stayed there, hanging in mid-air. After some time a new hammer was secured and he threw it 12s feet 9 inches, breaking the old record by 4 inches. A Connally broke the record in the discus by 514 inches with his throw of 97 feet 815 inches. Summary: the boards was in the 220-yard senior run. T heavyweight contest he ever had seen, and extolled the fighting qualities of both pugilists without committing himself one way or the other. One thing which was commented upon quite freely was the fact that Corbett was able to get into such fine condition. On the other hand, Jeffries was not as finely trained as he should have been. When he returned to his dressing room after the battle it was observed that he could have taken off more flesh without any danger. Jeffries said when questioned about this that he felt very strong and that he had not done very much boxing five days before the mill "Tommy Ryan had a cold," he said, "and I thought that as long as he was unable to box I could get off extra weight by doing road work. But I was mistaken. The superfluous flesh which you see on me did not bother me much. My wind was perfect and that is the main thing.

Both puglists were around town yesterday as chipper and lively as two larks. Even in the face of his defeat Corbett seemed to be happy and held a levee in his cafe throughout the day. He did not display any mark, and the only thing that seemed to be the matter with lum was that he could hardly speak above a whisper at times. He said that he had contracted a cold during the battle. Jeffries left for New York immediately after the mill and went to the Murray Hill baths. Outside of a black eye and a puffed lip he was unscratched. DAY AFTER THE BATTLE.

JEFFRIES AND CORBETT SHOW FEW

SIGNS OF THEIR HARD STRUGGLE.

The Champion Save He Was Under a Pull

and Should Have Won in Twelve Rounds
-Corbett Intends to Keep on Fighting

The only thing talked about by the sports yesterday was the victory of James Jeffries over Jim Corbettat Coney Island on Friday night. While the result was a foregone conclusion, so far as the majority of the followers of the ring were concerned, Corbett's showing was a big surprise. The impression prevailed that he would be easy for the Champion and succumb before the tenth round. Many were disappointed because Jeffries did not do the trick gainsaying that he utilized all his skill and that it was Corbett's cleverness and generalship that prevented an earlier termination of the struggle. Jeffries yesterday repeated the statement he made after the fight to the effect that his left arm bothered him to a great extent. He further said that he was under a pull. He contends that had he fought the way he wanted to, the fight would not have

Referee White, when questioned by a reporter of THE SUN, said that it was the best heavyweight contest he ever had seen, and ex hitch, and Brady wore a look of disappointment when he left. The matter will probably be settled to-morrow.

Most of the out-of-town sports left for home yesterday. As the majority had at the last moment snapped at the alluring odds on Corbett and backed him, there were many disappointed ones among the lot. What little betting was included in was done at the ringside. A good deal of money was lost by those who wagered that Corbett would be whipped inside of ten rounds. As good as even money was secured, and odds of 10 to 8 were readily accepted by those who thought that Corbett would not go over fifteen rounds. The Considine brothers, George and Johnny, won a tidy sum this way. George says he is ahead to the extent of $1,500, and Johnny calculates his winnings at about $1,780. Jim Wakely, Charley Mahoney, "Honest" John Kelly, Martin Dowling and Sam Fitzpatrick won on the result, but dropped quite a pile on the number of rounds. Tom O'Rourke, who bet that Corbett would not respond to the call of time after the tenth round, dropped $1,000 to Eddie Burke. One of the heaviest winners is Dr. Ordway, who is now on his way to Europe He commissioned Al Smith to wager $5,000 for him on Jeffries. Smith got the huik of the money down, but was forced to give big odds in order to accomplish this.

Wakely said that Corbett's showing nearly staggered him. Al Smith was pleased over the way Corbett fought and predicts that he will eventually win back the championship if he takes care of himself.

"Had I not been a friend of Jeffries," said Smith, "I would have lost heavily on Corbett.

H. D. SCHUYLER, 73 State St., Albany, N. Y., writes: "Every spring I have a drowsy, logy feeling, loss of appetite and poor sleep, and am very nervous. Last March I began taking Paine's Celery Compound, and I never felt so well in my life as since using it. I gained ten pounds in flesh and it strengthened my nerves. I can recommend Paine's Celery Compound to everybody in the spring months, especially those whose nerves and brain are under constant strain.

You know I was neutral in this fight. When I saw Corbett at his training quarters I wondered at his fine condition and I was going to back him. I did not invest a dollar on the outcome. A funny incident leaked out yesterday anent the battle. Corbett is quite superstitions and Brady, who knows the ex-champion's nature to a dot, thought it would be a good thing to play a trick on Corbett. "Pompadour Jim," whenever he fights, does not like to enter the ring before his opponent, as he thinks this presages defeat. So Brady put Ed Dunkhorst into the ring and surrounded him with seconds. Cerbett thought that it was defires, but when he discovered it was not he bit his lip and growled.
